Quilt show a special feature of Elk Point Agricultural Society Bench Fair 2000

Elk Point Agricultural Society's Fair 2000 is just four days away, and needleworkers, crafters, gardeners and photographers are putting the final touches on their entries, while others are shining up their best-looking jars of preserves or are eager to get busy in their kitchens on entries for the Baking section.

This year, the Fair has changed from the familiar entries-on-Friday, viewing-on-Saturday format to allow easier access for those who work all week. Entries are being taken on Saturday, August 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the A. G. Ross Arena. Fair books listing the vast number of categories are available at the Elk Point Review, as are tags which must be fastened to each entry. Entry fee is just $1 per person, which allows you to enter as many categories of the competition as you wish (but only one item per category), and also gives you free admission to the viewing.

Judging will take place later Saturday afternoon, and all the prize ribbons will be put in place ready for public viewing on Sunday, August 13 from 1 to 6 p.m., with a nominal $1 admission for non-exhibitors over six years of age. Prizes will be awarded Sunday at 6 p.m., with aggregate awards in each of 14 categories, eight of which have junior sections and one devoted to seniors over 60 years of age. Three aggregate awards will be presented to the overall winners with the highest total points. The grand aggregate winner also will have her or his name engraved on the challenge plaque.

A special feature of this year's fair will be a display of quilts, and organizer Verona Lea Flanders says that she is expecting 20 or more quilts to be included in the show. "We have the Ferguson Flats Ladies' quilt that was raffled off at their 50th anniversary, as well as the one which they raffled in 1985, and a number of older quilts, as well as newer ones." Another special quilt expected to be included in the display is the Bicentennial quilt created by the late Barbara Milholland in honor of the 200th anniversary of Fort George and Buckingham House.

Each of the quilts will be accompanied by a brief history, telling when they were created and by whom. Special gloves will be available for wear by those who want to take a closer look at these sterling examples of heirloom stitchery.

NEW STOCKADE -- The Peter Fidler statue sports a handsome new stockade, thanks to the efforts of the Town of Elk Point, who spruced up the landmark recently.

■ July figures up

Tourist numbers down from 1999

The number of visitors registering at the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce Tourist Information Centre so far this summer has continued last year's downward trend, with 227 visitors for the first two months of the three month season, as compared to 277 last year and 413 in 1998.

Last year saw a serious decline in overall tourist traffic, with only 382 visitors signing the book as compared to 496 in 1998, 641 in 1997 and 540 in 1996, when the booth had a shorter season. The best year of the decade was 1994, when 1141 people signed in.

An interesting trend shows an increase of visitors from BC, with 18 so far this year compared to 14 to this point last year and 11 for all of 1998, while Saskatchewan visitors are down to 15 from 37 for June and July of last year and 25 in all of 1998. Nine registrants from the rest of Canada is equal to last year's total, and came from Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia, while we have had two United States visitors from Texas and five overseas visitors from Britain and Norway.

Tourist Information clerk June LaBoucane said the season got off to a slow start, with only 83 tourists in June, but nearly doubled that number in July. She has lots of up-to-date information on hand, and would be happy to help any local travelers to plan their late summer holidays, as well as offering information to visitors to the community.

The Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre also got off to a slow start this year, but had a sizeable increase in visitation during July, with over a hundred more visitors than in the same time period last year.

Their year-to-date figures are still down from last year's totals to July 31.

Site operations supervisor is Marianne Mack feels the cool weather has discouraged tourists and local residents alike from visiting the site. The twice-weekly day camp is bringing numerous youngsters to the Forts, however, and with the year's final major event, the Fort des Prairies Jamboree, coming up on August 27, she feels numbers will at least catch up with last year's season total.

The summer's unprecedented high gasoline prices may also be one of the reasons for the decline in tourism and attraction visitation, as people stay closer to home than they have in years when travel was less costly.

River rescue

Angler swept downstream

On July 30 at approximately 9:00 p.m., two anglers were fishing off a sandbank surrounded by waist-deep water in the North Saskatchewan River near Lindbergh. One of the anglers lost his footing and was swept away by the river current. His friend, who initially tried to swim and help him could not reach him and returned to where their boat was beached. After searching with the boat and not finding the man, the friend alerted the police and local volunteers combed the area until nightfall, when the search was put on hold.

The search continued in the morning with the assistance of RCMP Air Services from Edmonton and the local Fish and Wildlife officers. The aircraft spotted the missing angler at approximately 10:45 a.m., three to four miles downstream from his initial location. Fish and Wildlife members on shore picked up the angler, who was suffering from dehydration and exhaustion.

The Elk Point RCMP would like to thank the locals who offered to assist in the search. Special thanks go to the assisting Fish and Wildlife officers and RCMP Air Services.

Lindbergh resident wins $10,000

Alf Fakeley's wallet is stretched to the fullest - especially now that he has won $10,000 on a Bingo scratch'n'win ticket. "It was falling apart from holding too many scratch'n'win tickets!" he laughed.

The 89-year-old Lindbergh resident walked in the St. Albert Prize Payout Office July 28 to claim his top prize wearing a t-shirt reading, 'Play Bingo - life's too short not to!' And that is exactly what Alf does. "I buy a lot of them, there's no doubt about that!"

Last week, Alf purchased five Bingo tickets at Tags in Elk Point. He took them home to play and won on the very first ticket he scratched. "I said to myself, 'It has to be - it is time!'" To double check the win, he went to his neighbor's house. "She didn't know," he recalled. So he went to another neighbor who happily told him the ticket was indeed worth $10,000.

"I'll invest half and then the rest I'll buy things I could never have before!" Alf will start with a new wallet to hold his scratch'n'win tickets.

"I'll be trying for $1 million now!" the happy winner exclaimed.

CRIME STOPPERS well site

By Cst. Simon Cote
Elk Point RCMP

Sometime between 7:30 p.m. on July 29 and 10:00 a.m. on July 30, unknown individuals went on an oil patch lease by the Sod Farm road on Highway 646, east of Elk Point and opened two valves on a tank containing crude oil, which resulted in a spill of about 50 gallons. A cleaning crew had to be dispatched to clean the site.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or the Elk Point RCMP Detachment.

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $2000 for information leading to the arrest of the person(s) responsible for this or any other crime. You do not have to reveal your identity and if your tip leads to an arrest you qualify for an award.

Don't look now but...

Yes this is your humble Elk Point Review Editor, Vicki Brooker quadding in the wilderness on July 30 near Edson, captured on film by Faye Smith.

from the FCSS DESK

It's time for us to enjoy the good old summertime!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

How are you all doing with your summer time holidays with family and friends? Have you traveled close to home or have you made trips with a few miles to them? Anyway, I am sure the questions from the children were: "Are we there yet?"

You are probably wishing you had taken some "in the car games" with you. Anyway, the other day, I located this really neat "History of Canada Coloring Book" in Cal's Hardware here in Elk Point. There are some simple facts about Canada that would be nice to teach our children - especially as we travel to these locations. And... they could color the pictures as they learn.

Did you know that the Royal Tyrell Museum of Paleontology, a world class institution for research and display of dinosaurs, was opened in 1985? The 50 skeletons are the largest display of complete dinosaur skeletons in the world. How many dinosaurs can you name?

If anyone had a chance to travel to Newfoundland this summer, maybe you were able to visit L'Anse au Meadow. This is where the remains of a Norse or Viking village site were discovered in 1960. The first people to visit North America from Europe were Vikings, or Norse. These fearless sailors came from Iceland almost one thousand years ago in small boats called Knorrs. Families and animals traveled in these boats.

Or maybe you had a chance to visit the Mackenzie River this summer. It is named after the man who discovered it on his first trip west in 1793. He lost his dog on his journey to the Pacific Coast but found him on his trip home. Wasn't that nice?

For those of you who are from New Brunswick, I bet you can answer this question. Today there are only 200 covered bridges left in Canada. Where is the longest one located? (Answer: The longest one is in Hartland, New Brunswick, over the Saint John River.)

Maybe some of you had a chance to visit Ottawa. Anyway, did you know that the Canadian soldiers liberated Holland at the end of World War II. So every year, Holland sends 25,000 tulip bulbs to Ottawa to say "thank you." Of local interest, to those of you who remember Louis Verhagen, his daughter who loves close to Ottawa has planted some tulip bulbs in his memory in Ottawa. Mr. Verhagen was among the Dutch citizens liberated at the end of the war.

Or, maybe you stayed in Elk Point this summer. Say, do you know why oil is called a "fossil fuel"? (Answer: "Oil" is organic material from plants and animals buried far underground for millions of years.) A simple answer, right?

Yes, it is summer time. I hope you all are enjoying it!

Albertans get extra $.5 M break from fees and taxes

The Fees and Charges Review Committee has released its final report, paving the way for an additional $500,000 worth of savings for Alberta.

These savings will be over and above the $60 million worth of cuts to fees and charges already announced in Budget 2000.

According to St. Albert MLA Mary O'Neill, chair of the committee, the result of the fee review is that Albertans and their businesses will be able to keep more of their earnings for their own use.

O'Neill's committee was launched in the spring of 1999 following a Supreme Court ruling which declared that compulsory fees must more accurately reflect the actual cost of services provided. While other provinces scramble to protect their fees with new legislation, Alberta saw the ruling as an excellent opportunity to determine whether some of our direct government fees and

MLA Report

other charges could be reduced or eliminated.

The committee's year-long review led to reductions on more than a hundred fees and charges for a wide array of services, from corporate registry fees and land titles to personal property registration fees. However, O'Neill emphasized that her team also found the vast majority of Alberta's 1200 fees and charges were below or appropriately in line with service costs.

In addition to fee reductions, the Fees and Charges Review Committee's final report details the committee's review process and outlines recommendations on the government's general fees and charges policy. O'Neill said that the report will serve as the foundation for any subsequent changes to the government's approach to fees and charges.

The committee consisted of Mary O'Neill, Ron Stevens, MLA Calgary-Glenmore, Russ Mann, Banker - Edmonton, Norma Mitchell, Lawyer - Edmonton, and myself.

The committee's report can be found on the Alberta Treasury website at <http://www.treas.gov.ab.ca>.

If you would like to contact me on this or any other issue, I can be reached at Box 1848, St. Paul, Alberta, T0A 3A0.

Nutrition notes

Healthy mom, healthy baby

By Linda Fox, RD
Elk Point Health Centre

Are pickles and ice cream a must for moms-to-be? Maybe not!

During pregnancy extra nutrients and energy are needed for mom and the growing baby. According to Health Canada, moms-to-be need to eat well by following the food guide and pay special attention to nutrients like calcium, vitamin D, folate and iron.

Both mom and baby need calcium and vitamin D for healthy bones. Four servings of milk products daily will meet the calcium needs of most pregnant women. Two glasses of milk a day will provide almost all the vitamin D you need. We can't rely on the sun to provide us with vitamin D year round, so a reliable food source, like milk, is important.

Folate helps ensure baby's proper brain development by preventing neural tube defects. Although some good sources of folate are common foods like broccoli, oranges and peanut butter, few diets actually provide enough folate. Health Canada recommends women take a supplement of 0.4 mg before and during pregnancy.

Women need extra iron during pregnancy. Unfortunately, most women don't have enough iron stored in their bodies to meet their iron needs. Even with a diet rich in iron, 30% of women end up with low iron by the end of their pregnancy. A low dose iron supplement is recommended during the last six months of pregnancy. Talk to your doctor to find out how much you need.

Registered dietitian TaraLea Hergott says, "Expectant moms should aim to get their energy and nutrients by following Canada's Food Guide to Health Eating. Pay attention to your appetite and be active. As for pickles and ice cream, they're part of the food guide too!"

For a free wipe-off board to help you plan a healthy diet, contact the Dairy Nutrition Council of Alberta. Dial 1-800-253-7530 and ask for a copy of How to Build a Better Baby.

■ New Regulations

Are you aware of the new Canadian boating regulations that affect all boaters?

Anyone born after April 1, 1983 needs a Pleasure Craft Operator Card in order to operate a boat fitted with a motor. All operators of craft under 4 m in length, including personal watercraft, will need one by September 15, 2002.

The Canadian Coast Guard Office of Boating Safety, Central & Arctic Region launched a safe boating contest to raise awareness among youth that this law is currently in effect. These laws were put into place to reduce boating related deaths and injuries. In the past, anyone of any age could operate any recreational boat of any size without training or experience.

Recreational boaters thought that this situation was dangerous and that pleasure boat operators should understand safe boating rules and have the right attitude toward boating safety before being allowed to operate a boat.

The contest theme is "Take a Course - Get Your Card." Youth can go to www.safeboatingcontest.com to enter the contest, learn about the new age and horsepower restrictions, read safety tips and most importantly, find a Coast Guard accredited course provider in their area.

The grand prize consists of a weekend "sailing cruise and learn" for four plus a three person capacity, Lund A-12 boat with a Honda BF8 8 hp motor. There are many other fabulous prizes, all generously donated.

For information on the new boating regulations, contact the Canadian Coast Guard Office of Boating Safety, Central & Arctic Region at 383-1972.

New books for your summer leisure reading

By Daphne Schnurer
Librarian

First, a reminder: Northern Lights Library System will be visiting us tomorrow, Wednesday, August 9 at 1:30 p.m. with the A & A Traveling Show, an hour long presentation of magic, balloon sculpting, games and prizes for the participants of both age groups of the Summer Reading Program as well as anyone else interested in some great family entertainment for a great price - absolutely free!

Our newest book fits right in with the Summer Reading Program theme, "Mission 2000: Bugs in Space." With possibly the scariest cover in the entire library, Bugs of Alberta by TV's "Nature Nut," John Acorn and illustrated by Ian Sheldon, tells you all about everything from beautiful butterflies to the bad-tempered Bald Face Hornet, "125 of the coolest bugs in Alberta" in all.

From aquatic larva to spiders and non-insect arthropods to sucking bugs, wasps and beetles, you'll find an entertaining and educational description of each bug, its size and range, its habits and interesting facts about its life, presented in a very readable style and adorned with a detailed and lifelike drawing of each one. A six-page color-coded index showing a smaller version of each illustration helps the reader find the bug they wish to identify, as well as the page containing a more detailed description.

Acorn says in his introduction that he tried to pick "bugs that were big, colorful, really hard to miss or extremely weird" as he chose 125 from the province's estimated 20,000 species. He combined this with "Basic Bug Banter" such as bug structure, which outlines the various parts of an insect, life history, ecology, and how bugs are related to the other living things around them.
